

International Relations Theory and South Asia

Security, Political Economy, Domestic Politics, Identities, and Images

2 Volumes

edited by

E. SRIDHARAN

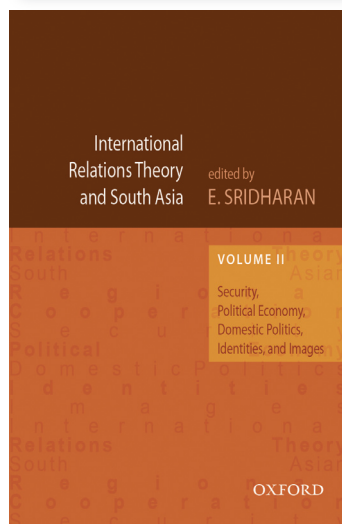

Volume I

9780198069652 Hardback forthcoming

The first volume covers three broad topics—the creation of possible regional architectures; the political economy of trade and economic integration, both at the foreign policy and domestic political levels of analysis; and purely domestic political issues like the state and minorities. It takes a long-term perspective on conflict resolution.

Volume II

9780198070801 Hardback forthcoming

The second volume covers three inter-related areas—security; political economy and domestic politics; and the construction of identities, images, norms, and world views. Combining theory with fieldwork, it presents a comprehensive picture of international relations in South Asia.

About the Volumes

In this twin-volume collection, South Asian scholars analyse the problems of conflict resolution and cooperation-building in the region in the light of international relations theory and related social science theorizing. The essays cover diverse areas like security, foreign policy, and political economy in an interrelated way, both at the international and domestic levels of analysis.

About the Editor

E. Sridharan is Academic Director, University of Pennsylvania Institute for the Advanced Study of India, New Delhi.
