

Pipes Politics, Contested Waters: Embedded Infrastructures of Millennial Mumbai

A BOOK DISCUSSION WITH

LISA BJÖRKMAN

*Assistant Professor, Urban and Public Affairs Department
University of Louisville*

AND DISCUSSANTS

LISA MITCHELL

*Associate Professor, South Asia Studies
Director, South Asia Center, University of Pennsylvania*

PHILIP K. OLDENBURG

*Adjunct Associate Professor, Department of Political Science
Columbia University*

Friday, November 6, 2015

12 noon to 1:30 p.m.

LISA BJÖRKMAN is an Assistant Professor in the Urban and Public Affairs Department at the University of Louisville. Her book, Pipe Politics, Contested Waters: Embedded Infrastructures of Millennial Mumbai (Duke University Press, 2015), is a political ethnography about the encounter in Mumbai between market-oriented urban development reforms and the material politics of the city's water infrastructures. Pipe Politics was awarded the American Institute of Indian Studies' 2014 Book Prize in the Indian Social Sciences. Her previous research in Mumbai was a multi-sited ethnography of the making and remaking of the city's affordable housing stock, exploring the multiple and divergent developmental imaginaries articulated through actual material reconfigurations of urban spaces, neighborhoods, and infrastructures. She earned a Ph.D. in Politics from the New School for Social Research in New York in 2012.

VENUE: CASI – 3600 Market Street, Suite 560 (5th floor) Philadelphia, PA 19104-2653

About CASI

Founded in 1992, the Center for the Advanced Study of India (CASI) at Penn is the first research institution in the U.S. dedicated to the study of contemporary India. The Center's key goals are to nurture a new generation of scholars across disciplines and to provide a forum for dialogue among the academic, business, and foreign policy communities.

